Of the foregoing results, those obtained at the Giants Causeway and at Colerain are manifestly affected, to a very considerable extent, by the disturbing action of the basaltic rocks. The effect of the basaltic pillars of the Causeway upon the magnetic needle has been long since observed; and on comparing the dip recorded in the preceding table, with that due to the geographical position of the station, we find it in excess to the amount of 50 . At Colerain, on the other hand, the effect of the disturbing action has been to diminish the dip, but in a less amount. The cause of...
